

Day 12

Daily Scripture Reading: Ecclesiastes 3:1-15

Dear God,

Help me to discover my priorities because I know that it is an important part of time management. Teach me how to order my days according to your will. You take top priority in how I use the time that you have given me. You have made it very clear throughout Scripture that I am to value order, and that the Holy Spirit gives me the capacity to exercise self-control to create rhythms in my life that make me productive. "For God is not a God of disorder but of peace" (1 Corinthians 14:3). When I bring more order into my life, I invariably establish more peace.

You have given me the same amount of time in a day that you gave to Jesus of Nazareth –24 hours a day, 168 hours a week to give you glory and to undergo the projects and plans you have ordained for my life. I have squandered enough time, playing away here and there, squandering more than my fair share of precious minutes. God, please forgive me!

Lord, I am asking for and receiving by faith the ability and the ability to hear your quiet instructions both in Your Scriptures and in my heart, so I know how to spend my time, offering You a fruitful life.

In Jesus Name, Amen
